

Fox is the story of a bird named Magpie who becomes injured and will never fly again. She is helped by Dog, who takes care of her, is honest with her, and even helps her to feel as though she is flying again. Soon, they meet Fox, who Dog helps by letting him stay in his home even though Magpie distrusts him.

Eventually, Fox convinces Magpie to abandon Dog in order to come with him. Magpie is then betrayed by Fox when he leaves her in the desert and admits he only wanted to make her and Dog feel lonely just like him. This betrayal causes Magpie to realize she should have stayed loyal to Dog.

It is important to be loyal to our true friend, because our friends will always be there to care for us when we are down. Magpie will never fly again after she burns her wing. She whispers to Dog "I will never be able to fly." Then drags herself into the shadows in order to melt into the blackness. This shows that Magpie wants to disappear from existence because of how much she is suffering.

Dog is patient and waits for days to allow Maggie time to feel better.

He then invites her to the river, where he shows her in the reflection of the water that the two of them together look like a "strange, new creature."

This is important because Dog wants Maggie to know that he will always be there for her. He even runs with her on his back, which makes her feel almost like she is flying once more. Magpie rejoices because of the feeling of flying. This shows that Dog made her happy again by caring so much for her. Dog showed great loyalty to Magpie by patiently supporting her through a difficult time.
